For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889,

The report of the SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY has been prepared and will be presented to Congress. The aggregate receipts from all sources were $387,050,058 84, divided as follows: From customs, $223,832,741 68; from internal revenue, $130,881,513 93; from miscellaneoussources, $32,335,803 23. The total expenditures, including the sinking funds, were $329,579,920 25. The excess of receipts over expenditures, after providing for the sinking funds, was $57,-170,129 59. For the current year the toal revenues, actual and estimated, were $375,000,000, and the ordinary expenditures, actual and estimated, are $293,000, 000, making, with the sinking fund, a total expenditure of $341,678,833 01. Thereveues for the fiscal year ending June 30 1891, are estimated by the Treasury Department at $395,700,000. This shows an estimated surplus for that year of $43,-569,522,30, which is more likely to be increased than reduced when the actual transactions are written up. The exist-ence of so large an actual and anticipated surplus should have the immediate attention of Congress, with a view of reducing the receipts of the Treasury to the needs of the Government as closely as may be. The collection of moneys not needed for public expenses imposes an unnecessary burden on our people, and the presence of so large a surplus in the public vaults is a disturb-ing element in the conduct of State business. It has called into use expedients for putting it into circulation of very questionable propriety. We should not collect revenue for the purpose of anticipating our bonds, beyond the requirements of the sinking fund. The loaning of the public funds to the banks without interest upon the security of Government bonds I regard UNAUTHORIZED AND DANGEBOUS EXPEDIENT It is not to be expected that the banks having deposits will sell their bonds to the Treasury so long as the present highly beneficial arrangement is continued. They now practically get interest both upon the bands and their proceeds. No further use should be made of this method of getting the surplus into circulation, and the deposits now outstanding should be gradually withdrawn and applied to the purchase of bonds. I recommend a revision of our tariff laws both in their administrative features and in the schedules. Uniformity of valuation at all our ports is essential, and the most effective measures should be taken to secure it. The proparation of a new schedule of customs duties is a matter of great delicacy. Some disturbance of business ms f, perhaps, result from the consideration of his subject by Congress, but this temporary disturbance will be reduced to a minimum by prompt action, and the as- I recommend that more definite provision surance which the country enjoys, that any necessary changes will be so made as not to impair the just and reasonable protecnow approach in that wise and just spirit tion of our home industries. The mequalnecessarily have relation to other things besides the public revenues. We cannot limit their offects by fixing our eyes on the public treasury alone; they have a duect relation to home protections, to work, to wages and to the commercial independence of the country, and the wise and patrictic legislator should enlarge the field of his vision to include all of these. The free list can very safely be extended by placing thereon articles that do not offer competition to such domestic products as our home labor can supply. The removal of the internal tax upon tobacco would re-lieve an important agricultural product organized, as they often are, to crush out from a burden which was imposed only be- all healthy competition and to monopolize cause our revenue from custom dulies was the production or sale of any article insufficient for the public needs. It is probable that the adoption of the suggestion made by the Comptroller of Curiency, v z: That the medium deposit of bonds or the establishment of banks be reduced and that an issue of notes to the par value of the bond be allowed, would help to mentain the bank circulation. There was during the same period a decrease of $114,109,729 in the bank circulation and of $642,481 in subsidiary silver. The net increase was 3550,224,193. The circulation per expita has increased about $5 during the time covered by the table above referred to. The total coinage of silver dollars was on Nevember 1, 1889, $313,638,001, of which $283,539,521 were in the Treasury vanlts and $60,098,480 were in circulation. Such a result would be discreditable to our financial management and disastrous to all business interests. We should not tread the dangerous edge of such a peril, and, indeed, nothing more harmful could happen to the silver interests, and safe legislation upon this subject must secure the equality of the two coins in the commercial uses. I have always been an advocate of the use o silver in our currency. We are large pro ducers of that metal, and should not discredit it. The plan which will be presented by the Secretary of the Treasury for the issuance of notes or certificates upon the deposit of silver bullion at its market value I have been able to give only a hasty examination, owing to the press of other matters, and to the fact that it has been so recently formulated. The details of such law require careful consideration, but the general plan suggested by him seems to satisfy the purpose to continue the use of silver in connection with our currency, and at the same time to obviate the danger of which I have spoken. But no manufacturing interests have built. However that may be, it is a fact invaded the restful quiet so inviting to the heavy showers were of frequent occurrence in the mountains along the Humboldt valley, but since the lake dried up there has not been a heavy shower of rain in the Humboldt valley or the mountains which skirt it west of Beowawe, and some mon of more than ordinary intelligence express the opinion that the Humboldt lake is a thing of the past. IT SHELTERED WASHINGTON-

House at Rye Where the President Slept One Hundred Years Ago. There is a house standing on the post road in the village of Rye, that is an object of special interest. It sheltered President Washington 100 years ago. On Oct. 15, 1789, Washington left New York in his coach, drawn by four fine horses, accompanied by his private and official secretaries. It was the beginning of that journey to New England which the President desired should be unostentations, but which the people of all ranks made an occasion for the expression of the love and reverence they deeply felt. He arrived in the village of Rye, a distance of twenty-six miles from New York, in the latter part of the day, and found rest for the night at the ion kept at that time by Mrs. Haviland, a name not uncommon in the neighborhood to-day. This is the note in Washing-ton's journal, written at the evening hour: "Thursday, Oct. 15, 1789.—After dinner, through frequentlight showers, we proceeded to the tavern of a Mrs. Haviland, at Rye, who keeps a very neat and decent inn." This is his entry concerning the road and Evidences that the locality of Rye Beach was once inhabited by many Indians abound. Warlike and domestic implements have frequently been unearthed; skeletons of Indians have been found in various excavations; while tradition affords many accounts of their presence and habits. But the proximity of Rye to the state boundary line and to the shore of the Sound rendered the section debatable ground, armies and ships being the arguments employed in turn by the Dutch, the British and the Americans. During the revolution it lay between the outposts of the opposing forces. Hasty and cruel incursions were frequent, so that at the close of the war the desolated homes and the poverty of the people presented a pitiable sight. Need we wonder, then, that the journey of the Great and reverence?

It has been improved by the erection of beautiful residences, by the laying out of attractive grounds, and by the building of excellent that a large body of water at the sink of the When the Humboldt modified the climate. When the lake was high, as it generally was while the dam existed, cloudly ris and the vicinity, and the evident thriftiness of the farmers, add a delightful and unending zest to the many drives, Much more might be added of historic interest and of present attractions, but, our purpose being simply to present one of the many places rendered sacred to Americans by the visits of Washington, we have more than fulfilled our intention. Let not one of these old landmarks be forgotten. It would be well if every schoolboy might trace at the distance of a hundred years the footprints of Washington to the end of his life.—Cor. New York Mail and Express.

Cured of Flirting,

"No more flirting for me, boys," remarked a drummer to some of his acquaintances. "1 used to go without smoking when I was dying for a cigar, just so I could go in the ladies' ear. But I'm cured. On my last run into Lincoln I met a nice young lady. She was agreeable, and of course I made myself as nearly so as possible. Had a pleasant half hour with her before we reached the station, and of course when we got off there I asked her if there were any parcels I could carry for her. She smiled bewitchingly and said I might help her if I would be so kind. Then she pointed to the seat right behind where we were sitting, and there were three babies, assorted sizes, usleep. She said they were hers. Well, I was in for it, so I picked up the big-gest ones, one on either arm, while she took We marched out and found a carriage, and I put her in and was about to say good day when sho smiled again so bewitchingly and asked me to get in. I couldn't refuse, you know, so I went along. We drove out to somewhere near the capitol and stopped before a nice house. A man came running out, lifted out the babies, kissed them, lifted out the young woman, kissed her two or three times and told the driver he could go. Would you believe it, she was so

Unselfishness.

It was said by an enemy of Napoleon III that he had "no sentiment of good or evil, only the sentiment of self." The habit of continual self consciousness and self attention is as fatal to one's happiness as it is to one's usefulness and good manners; but the only way to cure it is to cultivate thoughtfulness of others and kindness toward them. The Rev. Edward Everett Hale says:

"I remember having to advise a man who had fallen into a sad, morose life, and had put himself under my counsel, and I said, 'Sup pose you begin by passing the butter at the table. He needed to be on the outlook, consciously, for little occasions to serve those

NO POLITICS IN IT.

The Tuscarcra Times-Review says: Silver has gone up a few cents an ounce during the last few months, but the advance is owing to no political cause und it is the quintessence of idiocy to claim credit for it for any political party. The sight advance is on account of increased demand for the metal, for other purposes than coinage, at home and abroad, and politics have no more to do with it than with the price of sagebrush in Tuscarora. Every Adminis-tration since the passage of the Bland bill has one all in its power to keep the white metal down, by coming only the minimum amount, and the existing one is no exception to the rule. The claim of Democrat that silver was higher at one time during Cleveland's term than it is at present, is only equalled in silliness by the Republican intimation that the recent advance was owing to friendliness upon the part of Secretary Windom's finan-cial policy. There is no capital to be gained by either party by such nousensical assertions, and the souner the autisan press and tin-horn politicians drop such factics the quicker will be the thorough unity of action among the real friends of silver in their efforts to reinstate the whole way—was very rough and stony, but the land strong, well covered with grass and a luxuriant crop of Indian corn. The farms are very close together, and separated, as one inclosure also is from another, by fences of stone, which are indeed easily made. to which he belongs. It looks, however, as though half of the politicians on either side in Nevada would be willing to sacrifice the main issue if by doing so they could fix the blame upon their political opponents.

The importance of purifying the blood can not be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health.

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and we ask you to try Hood's Peculiar Sarsaparilla. It strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. The peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation of the vegetable remedies used give to Hood's Sarsaparilla pecul- To Itself iar curative powers. No other medicine has such a record of wonderful cures. If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other instead. It is a Peculiar Medicine, and is worthy your confidence. Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.
